GERMAN TRADE MADE IMPORTANT GAIN IN COMMERCE FOR 1926

United States Leads Ex- ports And Britain In Imports

WASHINGTON, Apr. 13.—The outstanding feature of world trade in 1926 was the remarkable "come-back" of Germany, which alone of the important commercial nations sold more goods in foreign markets than during the preceding year.

Statistics disclosing a total world trade of about $57,500,000,000 last year were made public today by the commerce department.

Passing France, Germany became the third most important exporting nation in 1926, having sold abroad goods valued at $2,352,400,000, a gain of $253,500,000 from the year before.

German sales in 1926 were only slightly under the figure of 1913. German import business, however, fell off fifteen per cent.

On the other hand French foreign sales fell $246,000,000 reaching a level of $1,925,000,000 last year. France was close to $600,000,000 beyond pre-war averages.

Great Britain accounted for approximately $16,900,000,000 out of the total world trade for the year. For eighteen countries, which do about three-fourths of the business, there was a loss of five per cent for the year.

The United States developed total trade of $9,495,600,000. Britain and its possessions purchased from other nations good valued at $9,234,200,000 and sold the world commodities of a $7,580,400,000 valuation.

An individual nation the United States carried off honors as an exporter, having shipped abroad goods valued at $4,808,500,000, compared to $3,776,000,000 for the United Kingdom. The United Kingdom was the largest individual importer with $6,037,800,000, the United States ranking next with $4,430,900,000.

Preliminary figures for 1925 indicate that the United States will increase its export trade, but that there will be little change in the ranking of nations. German foreign sales are said to be on the increase, in a great drive to re-establish pre-war markets.

Germany's trade with the United Kingdom reflect the coal strike, with a drop of a billion dollars between 1925 and 1926, the commerce department said. "Exports fell off $700,000,000 and imports $350,000,000."

"France was the only other important trading country to suffer a serious decrease in both imports and exports, the drop having been $404,000,000."

"In contrast with the almost universal decline in trade of European countries, gains, though small, in North America were striking. Canadian trade increase five and one-half per cent and that of the United States one per cent."

GOVERNOR SMITH BELIEVES HIS STATEMENT CLOSING ARGUMENT

ABSECON, N. J., Apr. 19.—Governor Al Smith, of New York, considers the church-state debate ended with his letter to Charles C. Marshall, in which he set forth the creed as an American Catholic, in reply to an article by Marshall in the Atlantic Monthly. Following the publishing of the Governor's letter, Marshall wrote a second statement, seeking to strengthen his contention that Roman Catholicism and the American constitution conflict.

This the governor will leave unanswered, as he believes that his original reply, in which he said that there was no conflict between church and state as the two were entirely separated, fully answered the question and made clear his stand on the issue. Congratulations on his stand continued today to reach the governor from all parts of the country.

CONTRARY MARY OFF TO EUROPE

NEW YORK, Apr. 19.—Mary Lewis, Metropolitan opera singer from Little Rock, Ark., was on her way to Europe today with her newly acquired husband, Michael Bohnen, leaving a string of broken engagements behind.

She had intended to remain in this country to fill her concert engagements, despite the fact that she was married only last Thursday, and went to the pier last night to see Bohnen off. But the thought of parting was too much for her, and Mrs. Bohnen made a dash for her apartment where she gathered together a few clothes and her passport, returning just in time to board the ship.

"My engagements will have to cancel themselves," she said. "I haven't time."

MYERS COOPER IS AGAIN G. O. P. CHOICE

MARION, O., Apr. 19.—Myers Y. Cooper, Cincinnati, defeated Republican candidate for governor of Ohio in 1926 is the party's hope for governor in 1928, Fred W. Warner, Marion, chairman of the Republican State Central committee, declared here today.

Other party "hopes," according to Warner, will be Edward C. Turner, attorney general, and Simon D. Pess, for United States senator.

"Any one of these men can be elected," Warner continued, "if a primary battle can be avoided. If we can avert a primary battle, a complete victory for the entire Republican ticket is assured."

FINANCE GAMES

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Apr. 19.—A million-dollar bond issue to help finance the world olympic games, to be held in Los Angeles in 1932, had the authorization of the state assembly today, by a vote of 57 to 13.

WEALTHY CLERKS

LOS ANGELES, Apr. 19.—Lorenz Adlon, son of the multimillionaire owner of the famous Adlon Hotel in Berlin, Germany was working here today as a clerk in the Biltmore Hotel. His brother, Louis Jr., it was reported, will soon take a similar job in a San Francisco hotel.

STATE EXPECTED TO REST CASE AGAINST CONNEAUT SLAYER

Believe Hewitt Murder Will Reach Jury About Thursday

JEFFERSON, O., Apr. 19.—The state today expected to rest its case against Floyd Hewitt, 16 year old Conneaut boy, on trial for first degree murder.

Sheriff F. S. Sheldon, who will probably be the state's concluding witness, was to be placed on the stand when court opened this morning and his testimony was to end the state's evidence against the Conneaut youth, who is charged with killing Mrs. Celia Brown and her five year old son at Conneaut last February 14.

The defense will put twelve witnesses and two alienists on the stand in an effort to save the boy from the electric chair, it became known here today.

George H. Voerge, Cleveland chemist, was on the witness stand Monday afternoon, and testified that he had tested the mackinaw coat belonging to Hewitt, proving that a large spot over a breast pocket was blood-stained.

Earlier in Monday's proceedings, the defense objection to introduction of testimony by the state concerning the "second confession" of Hewitt was overruled. This state-ment was simply a reiteration of the first confession, with a few added details.

Court officials today predicted the case would go to the jury Thursday.

DISMISSES SUIT OF CREAMERY FIRM

COLUMBUS, O., Apr. 19.—The state supreme court today dismissed the suit in which the state, on behalf of the Croghan Creamery Company sought a writ of mandamus compelling Homer Johnston, director of public service, to authorize the company to erect a creamery in that city.

Dismissal was by consent of both sides.

The company claimed Johnston had refused to issue a building permit. The record showed that more than 100 Fremont citizens protested against the proposed construction, claiming the site was in strictly residential territory.

CLOCK MAKER FOUND BEATEN TO DEATH

CLEVELAND, O., Apr. 19.—A search was being made today for the murderer of John C. Compton, 31, clock-maker, found beaten to death.

The body was found, with several deep slashes on the head, in a shack just outside the Chagrin Falls corporation line, by Joseph Fazekas, owner of a barbecue. Furniture was strewn about the shack, indicating that a terrific struggle had taken place.

Compton had been missing from his home here since Sunday.

A bottle, which had apparently contained liquor, was found in the shack, police declared.

CABARET OWNERS RETURN AS MYSTIFYING AS DEPARTURE

CHICAGO, Apr. 19.—Jake Adler and Frank Gallie, wealthy owners of the Midnight Frolics Cabaret, were back in their old haunts today after a mysterious disappearance for six days.

The return of Adler and Gallie, recognized leaders of a powerful Southside vice syndicate, was as mystifying as their disappearance. They refused to tell where they had been.

It was reported soon after they vanished that they had been kid-

THOUSANDS DRIVEN FROM HOMES; RAINS INCREASE DANGERS

Kansans Driven Out Third Time By Swollen Streams

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 19.—Engineers said today only an act of providence or a sudden standstill in the waters can prevent the Saint Francis Basin from being flooded, due to a new levee break. The water was still rising steadily today, and efforts of engineers were directed toward "topping" the barriers and otherwise reinforcing them.

Reports that the levee at Farnsburg on the Little River had broken were denied, but it was admitted that water was lapping over the side. All night long more than 1,000 men labored to prevent the levee from crashing before the pressure of the high waters.

The flood situation, especially in Arkansas, Mississippi and along the lower Mississippi valley became worse today.

A dozen deaths are more or less attributed to the floods, while nearly 30,000 are homeless, according to Red Cross estimates. Property damage and loss to farmers as the result of thousands of acres being inundated, is incalculable, but it probably will run into millions.

ST. LOUIS, April 19.—With suffering increasing to sections south of here, the Red Cross sent out an appeal today for contributions to a fund to be used to house between 25,000 and 40,000 flood refugees until the waters recede along the Mississippi River and its tributaries.

New breaks late yesterday to the south of here inundated additional territories in southern Illinois and Arkansas.

The latest break reported occurred in Illinois across the river from Cape Girardeau, Mo., driving twenty-five families from their homes. These refugees and others between Reynoldsville and Gale, Ill., are being taken across the river to Missouri for safety while hundreds are being housed in tents erected on high ground near Cairo.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 19.—Southwest Kansas was today in the grip of a flood, the third in two weeks, with rivers rising at a rapid rate following heavy rains.

Butlington, Kas., and Iola, were hardest hit, the Neosho river at the latter place spreading out over lowlands for three miles.

The Cerdigris river at Madison was rising at the rate of thirty inches an hour during the night and by morning had flooded lowlands and driven residents from the town.

Many were again homeless today after they had returned from the two floods last week to set their homes in order.

Several small twisters visited the vicinity of Eastern Oklahoma but no lives were lost. At Texarkana, Ark., one was killed and four injured in a tornado.

Kansas City, eighty miles from Kansas City, was threatened today with inundation. The Maizes Des Cygne river had risen to the highest level for several years.

FORM CABINET

LONDON, Apr. 19.—Baron Tanaka, former minister of war, has accepted the premiership of Japan and is undertaking to form a new cabinet in succession to the Watsukuni ministry, said a dispatch from Tokyo today.

THOMPSON TOSSES BOMB AT M'ANDREW

CHICAGO, Apr. 19.—The big guns of the William Dale Thompson administration began booming today, following "Big Bill's" formal inauguration as mayor of Chicago before 2,500 citizens in the City Hall last night.

In his inaugural address Thompson declared war on William McAndrew, superintendent of schools, who he charges is too "pro-British" for any American community. He declared he would not rest until McAndrew is ousted.

His second objective, he said, was the repeal of the water meter ordinance, a bill which makes compulsory the measuring of all water consumed in homes throughout the city.

After the colorful inauguration ceremonies, the mayor and 500 of his friends set off on a steamboat journey down the Mississippi River to celebrate the passage of the "Lakes to the Gulf" waterway bill.

GOVERNOR DONAHUE VETOES THREE MORE NEWLY PASSED ACTS

Salary Bill Among Those Vic Fails To Ap- prove

COLUMBUS, O., April 19.—Governor Vic Donahue today informed Ohio legislators that he has vetoed three more measures passed this session: The Marshall Bill, proposing to increase the salary of the penitentiary chaplain from $1,500 to $2,500 annually, the Abele bill, authorizing theft insurance for funds of securities in custody of the county treasurer, and the Roberts bill to increase salaries of county commissioners and to prohibit them from collecting certain fees.

The Marshall bill, the governor declared, contained some legal defects. This measure, he stated, sought to amend a section of Ohio law which was repealed sixteen years ago. The governor, also, pointed out that the chaplain's salary now is $1,800 instead of $1,500 a year.

The Abele bill, according to the governor, "would immediately expose our eighty-eight county treasurers to the solicitations of innumerable salesmen. Not only would it result in added expenditure of public funds," the governor continued, "but it would serve as the entering wedge to subsequent insurance of every custodian of public funds in the state."

"The abolition of fees (as sought in the Roberts bill) is laudable," declared Donahue. "The objection, however, is that the proposed fixed salaries would amount to $122,646 more than the total of present salaries and fees. Ditch fees in 1925 amounted to only $9,165 and sanitary fees to $30,987, a total of $40,152. Had the general assembly merely increased the fixed salaries in this amount I would have been glad to sign the bill," the governor said.

HAUGHTY BLONDE WHO HELPED SLAY HER HUSBAND AIDS JURY SELECTION—PLANS TO SHIFT BLAME TO GRAY

COURTHOUSE, Long Island City, N. J., April 19.—Mrs. Ruth Snyder, the haughty, icy-eyed blonde on trial with her meek-mannered lover, Henry Judd Gray, for the murder of her husband, Albert Snyder, an art editor, is playing an important part in the selection of a jury but she will not take the stand in her own behalf.

Today, a month after the slaughter of the home-loving husband, she sits in court flanked by her attorneys and taking an active part in the management of her case. Self-possessed, sure of herself, her head thrown back, she examines every talesman as he is questioned. If she does not like his looks, or his answers, she tucks at the sleeve of Dana Wallace, one of her lawyers, and in no time the talesman is rejected.

Fifty talesmen trooped through the jury box yesterday and all of them were ruled out as not qualified to act as jurors. They either had formed an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the defendants or did not believe in capital punishment. Today another group of twelve entered the jury box and the business of trying to get a jury was started all over again.

Mrs. Snyder's attorneys indicated during the examination of the talesmen that she may not take the stand. The talesmen were asked if this would prejudice them against the rather good-looking defendant. It was also indicated that her defense will be that she did plan the crime with Gray, but withdrew before its commission and attempted to induce Gray to abandon it.

Gray's counsel are expected to contend that she coerced him into the crime, dominated him, and threatened to expose their relations to his wife if he did not commit the crime.

Mrs. Snyder, stunningly gowned in black, is the central figure in the courtroom. She shows no sign of care or fatigue as she toys with a chain of black beads and watches the talesmen. On the contrary her poised and animated appearance could not be greater if she were attending a bridge party—as she so frequently did when her friends knew her as "Tommy," because of her gaiety. She has high cheek bones, clear white skin, blue-green eyes, a determined chin and rather meek.

And on her left hand gleams a gold band wedding ring—evidently eleven years ago by the man she is accused of helping beat to death!

CHINA'S CONFUSION MORE COMPLETE AS GOVERNMENT STARTS

China's state of confusion became more complete today as Chiang Kai Shek has formed a moderate government in Nanking and issued orders for a day of general celebration of the event today. It is believed that Chiang may attempt to force the Hankow government of extremists out and that he will continue his military endeavors against the north.

The Hankow government has declared an embargo against silver and is reported to be moving troops to thwart any military movement against Hankow by Chiang.

While anti-communist raids by Chiang supporters are reported successful in Anhui, Canton and other centers, the extremists are reported in full control in Kiangsi province, taking drastic measures against their enemies.

The Peking government continues its military efforts against the nationalists.

Shanghai is quiet and some of the measures of defense have been relaxed, but tense conditions are still reported along the Yangtze, especially at Hanko, where Chinese mobs are angrily protesting against the silver embargo.

The dispatch of foreign warships to Nanking and Hankow has led to reports of a possible naval demonstration by the powers.

Semi-official statements in London indicate that the powers may delay further action with regard to the Nanking protests until the issues between Chiang and the Hankow government are more clear.

WOMAN SAID TO HAVE ADMITTED PREJUDICE AGAINST FORD

DETROIT, April 19.—The $1,000,000 Ford-Sapiro libel suit was adjourned today until Thursday pending further investigation by Federal Judge Fred S. Raymond of serious charges against a woman juror in the case.

Official notice that a mistrial would be demanded as a result of the charges leveled at the woman juror was served on the court by Stewart Hanley, of Henry Ford's counsel.

The illness of Senator James A. Reed, chief of Ford's attorneys, was cited by Hanley as an additional reason for the adjournment. The delay was granted at once by Judge Raymond.

William H. Gallagher, chief of Aaron Sapiro's counsel, created another stir by complaining to the court against the activities of Ford detectives in and about the courtroom. Gallagher said he had been informed that the Ford secret police were talking to jurors "whether to learn their state of mind or to influence them. I am unable to say."

When called upon by the court to produce some proof, Gallagher said he was without evidence necessary for formal action.

The possibility that a mistrial will be declared loomed strongly after the brief morning session. This would eliminate the five weeks of testimony taken so far and necessitate starting the charges against the woman juror, whose name was known but withheld at the direction of the court, were that she expressed strong opposition to Henry Ford. On one occasion, she was reported to have said she would "give Ford the limit" in the libel case. A number of affidavits, reciting the juror's remarks, were filed with the court.

COMMUNIST'S ASHES REVERED IN MOSCOW

BERLIN, Apr. 19.—The ashes of the late C. E. Ruthenberg, former head of the American workers party—a Communist organization—arrived in Berlin today en route for Moscow where they will be buried with honors.

The communist chiefs at Moscow have not yet decided whether the ashes shall be buried in Red Square under the walls of the Kremlin or in the Bolshevik pantheon.

A crowd of about 500 people gathered when the train bearing the ashes arrived and speeches were made by the leader as "a most valiant fighter for the proletariat in the world's greatest fortress of capitalism."

The urn holding the ashes rested in state throughout the day at headquarters of the central committee of the German communist party. They will be forwarded to Moscow tonight.

"BIG PARADE" SEES GILBERT IN JAIL

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 19.—There was a "big parade" on to and through the jail built under the Will Rogers administration today, for there, occupying one of the "guest cells," was John Gilbert, film idol, and there he will be for the next ten days.

Gilbert, police say, burst into the jail on April 11 and insisted the officers arrest "someone." Failing to get the desired action, Gilbert, the records show, became impatient, not to say indignant, whereupon he was locked up for a few hours, later being released on bail.

When he appeared yesterday to answer charges of disturbing the peace, he was given the "tenner."

KNOW YOUR SCHOOLS PROGRAM OF GRADES SCHEDULED APRIL 22

Second annual "Know Your Schools" program will be observed in all Xenia schools except the Opportunity School and the grades in the Central building Friday evening, April 22.

The various buildings will be open for public inspection beginning at 7 p. m. and parents and patrons are urged to attend.

Similar programs are carried out in other cities every year to acquaint the public with the work of the schools and school heads earnestly solicit attendance. In this way it is hoped to get the attainments of the schools before the public.

Information desks will be found in the buildings and guides will be available for convenience of visitors. There will be no formality and visitors are invited to come and go as they please.

Central High School held its annual program of like nature the evening of February 21.

This is an opportunity for parents and patrons to visit the schools, hear the children recite and become better acquainted with the teachers of the boys and girls.

Special arrangements are being made to take care of the primary children and see that they are returned safely home at the close of school, should the parent find it impossible to pay the school a visit that night.

At McKinley and Spring Hill the program will consist of a regular half-day of the routine work of the grades. Special musical features will be given in the auditoriums at 7:10 and 8:25 p. m. Work of the first three grades in both buildings is done entirely in one room but the intermediate schools will change rooms and teachers for each of the three class periods of the evening.

East High, pupils from the first grade through the twelfth will assemble at 6:45 p. m. and the regular routine of school work will be in at 7 o'clock. Visitors will find an information desk and place to register in the corridors and ushers will gladly assist patrons in finding the grade they desire to inspect. After the dismissal at 9 o'clock special features will be presented for the purpose of further entertainment.

The work done at the session will not be "set" but will be a fair sample of the type of school activity carried out every day.

Miss Mildred Sandoe, Greene County District Librarian, in her paper on "Our Children—What Do We Give Them?" stressed three points: first, give children only worthwhile books; second, have these books in attractive editions and well presented and third, teach children to know and appreciate books and to use books and their library.

Greene County was represented by delegates from Yellow Springs and Cedarville, as well as Xenia. Those present from Xenia were: Mrs. P. H. Furr, Mrs. S. O. Hale, Mrs. Lawrence Shields, Miss Belle Gatch, Miss Jean Ewell, Miss Maude Bright, Miss Anna McCracken, Mrs. Winifred Armstrong, Mrs. Howard Little, Mrs. Marshall Wolf, Mrs. Louise Sandoe, Mrs. Clarence Frazer, Mrs. Karl R. CHRISTIAN SCIENCE DISEASE DOCTRINE IS EXPLAINED HERE

"The Christian Scientist combats disease on the basis that it is a manifestation of imperfection. It is an impudent assertion of the existence of a power apart from the omnipotent God," Frank Bell, C. S. B., Philadelphia, Pa., member of the board of lecturership of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass., told an audience at Central High School auditorium Monday night.

"The conditions of disease would affirm that man, to whom God gave dominion, is in subjection to evil; that man, whom God made in His image and likeness, the likeness of perfection, is a poor, helpless thing, crippled, hampered, ultimately killed by nonintelligent, inanimate matter," Mr. Bell said.

"The Christian Scientist apprehends that it is a part of his Christian duty to disprove the affirmations of disease, to add to the accumulation of evidence that sin, disease, and death are neither created, sent, sanctioned, nor tolerated by God. It is because the Christian Scientist is awakening to the essential ungodliness of evil that he regards the healing of disease by spiritual means as a distinctly religious activity. The primary motive in this activity is the demonstration of the perfection of man, and this not for the gratification of man, but for the glory of God.

"When the people, at sight of the healings of Jesus, glorified God, it must have been because they caught the religious significance of what was taking place. Jesus, of course, understood this. He declared that it was the Father with him doing the works. He did always those things which pleased the Father. Of himself He could do nothing. He was about His Father's business, and that business, according to the record, had largely to do with healing.

"Jesus distinctly commanded His disciples to go into all the world and to heal the sick, and they were to teach all men all things He had commanded them. Certain signs, He said, should follow them that believed, certifying to the genuineness of their discipleship. Among these signs He specifically named the healing of disease. Those who loved Him would keep His commandments. Could the authority for healing as an indispensable part of Christianity be more complete? Surely it is the business of religion to meet and master everything unlike God. Surely nothing could be more unlike God than disease.

"Christian healing is distinguished from the results accredited to drugs, hygiene, or hypnotism in that Christian healing involves moral regeneration. The renewing of the mind is primary, healing of the body an incidental effect. The purpose is to bring out the perfection of man in the likeness of God. Spirit; therefore complete physical health, so-called, without a corresponding illumination of spiritual sense, would lack a Christian essential. Mere physical health is possible in the lowest animal.

"Jesus' recipe for health was (John 5:14): 'Sin no more, lest a worse thing come unto thee.'"

Those who are not ready to be better men and women are not ready for true Christian healing. But one need not too hastily assume that he is unready to be better. Often those who come with no other conscious desire than to be relieved of pain find that without knowing it they are seeking release from sin. The leaven of righteousness is working unseen in many a heart.

BIBLE THOUGHT

TASTE AND SEE:—O taste and see the Lord is good: blessed is the man that trusteth in him. Psalm 34:8.

BOLSHEVIKI DOMINATE CHINA

The relations between Red Russia and revolutionary South China are closer than ever before, according to Louis Fischer, Russian correspondent writing in "The Independent."

"Through all the complicated maze of Chinese events, the hand of the Kremlin is easily discernible," the writer says. "The happenings of the last few years are connected by a crimson thread which leads from Canton to Hankow to Moscow. The Russians inspire, advise, and help the Kuomintang Nationalists, and will undoubtedly continue to do so. The Bolsheviki have given arms and money to the South Chinese, but they have supplied the Cantonese with a weapon more effective and far cheaper than field guns, rifles, and airplanes—a weapon against which the products of European arsenals are powerless. That weapon is propaganda."

Many battles are won by the disintegration of the enemy army through propaganda, the writer points out.

"The Chinese has a spiritual affinity for Soviet Russia which the European and American can scarcely comprehend," the writer continues. "The Kuomintang look to Moscow as its Mecca and to the Moscow Sun Yat-sen University over which Karl Radek, formerly the arch-Communist propagandist, presides as the source of light."

HOMES IN GARDENS

There seems to be a growing interest among architects, landscape artists and other authorities, in restoring beauty and privacy to the back yards or gardens of residences, whether individual homes or apartment buildings. A French artist has been urging his people to return to that style, which used to be common enough there but has been abandoned in late years, backing their houses and apartments against the street and facing them on a garden or lawn that is removed from the sight and noise of the public thoroughfare.

Come to think of it, isn't it a queer thing that residential sections in many cities put so much money and energy into unnecessarily large front lawns, leaving the back yards to weeds, cinders or cement, rubbish and delivery men?

Front lawns with fine grass, flowers, shrubs and trees help to beautify the streets. That is a desirable end, but it could undoubtedly be achieved without using quite so much space. It has all come about, perhaps, from a natural human desire to show off and to place the best in public view. A pleasant private yard, might beautify the community even more, help to do away with slovenly back yards and provide a delightful place to spend the summer evenings.

LIGHTED HIGHWAYS

A bill is before the Ohio legislature which provides for the lighting of rural highways by the state under much the same plan as new roads are built and kept in repair. Farmers of the state are expressing themselves as strongly in favor of this bill. The reason is not far to seek. If the bill becomes a law it will mean not only much-needed lighting along the busiest inter-city routes, but it will also bring electricity, with all the conveniences it makes possible, right to the farmer's door.

The congestion of traffic and the increased number of accidents and hold-ups along state highways have created the demand for this lighting system. The time when practically all travelling along the roads was in daylight has passed. The highways now are used for both passenger and freight traffic 24 hours a day.

Highway lighting has already been undertaken on a wide scale in some states. General interest in it is likely to develop rapidly from now on.

If ignorance were bliss, everybody would be happy. Nowadays they sue for divorce and the custody of the reputation.

AT THE DOOR

Who's knocking at the door?
Who's there?
It might be anyone,
From anywhere.

A step, a rap, a voice—
And it might be
Someone as dear as life,
Come home to me.

Someone, perchance, whose path
Has grown apart,
Come knocking at my door
And at my heart.

Adventure taps the door,
The strange, the rare.
It may be almost anything—
Who's there?

ATROPHY

The picture which arises before the mind at the mention of the word atrophy is of something withered or shrunken, or weakened, or unable to do its normal work, lacking the appearance of health; something that has had its day and is worn out.

That is a correct picture, and applies to anything that has life. An atrophied plant has had its flower and seed and has withered and dried up; an atrophied limb of a tree hangs bare and barren, attached still to its parent stem, but without beauty and without usefulness, waiting only for a strong gust of wind to tear it away from its moorings.

A child who has suffered with infantile spinal paralysis drags its little leg and foot helplessly along and if you examine it you find it is thin and shapeless, its muscles unable to give him much assistance in locomotion and showing that something very important and very serious has happened to it.

That something is atrophy, and in this particular case it has made the child a cripple for life.

This atrophy of the muscles of the child's leg and foot is the consequence of disease, but there is another kind of atrophy which comes simply because the work of the part or organ is completed and there is no further use of it, like the stalk of the plant which dries up after the season's work is over, and this is called physiological atrophy.

There is in the upper part of the chest an organ or gland called the thymus gland or sweetbread.

Just what its work is we do not clearly know, but it is one of those ductless glands which, as endocrinology has recently taught us, plays an important part in development and nutrition, and its work is completed by the fourteenth year or earlier.

From that time on it shrivels up, and before very long, unless it has become diseased, there is scarcely a trace of it. So too, in the wonderful reproductive organs of the woman, when the child bearing period is ended and there is no further use for them they shrink and wither and in old age you can merely find the rudiments of them.

There is, therefore, an atrophy of disease and one that is physiological, or which signifies that the appointed work has been done.

Atrophy implies a want of nourishment, especially as derived from the blood and the nerves, and so we find in atrophied organs and tissues that they have less blood in them than in the normal state; they are smaller, firmer, drier and less elastic.

A single organ or tissue of the body may undergo atrophy or it may affect the entire body as it does in extreme old age, when the entire machine is worn out.

Defective development is not necessarily atrophy. A child may come into the world with certain parts poorly developed or deformed or he may fail to develop after birth in a normal way and may appear dwarfed and stunted.

That is not atrophy; it is merely imperfect development. Atrophy, which is the result of disease, is accompanied by emaciation and wasting; there is degeneration both in structure and function of the organs and tissues which have undergone this change. We often see this exemplified in the fevers so that they are frequently spoken of as the wasting diseases.

That same is true of chronic diseases like tuberculosis, Bright's disease and diabetes.

Atrophy may be produced by pressure, particularly if it is long continued. The tight lacing which some foolish women indulge in has been known to produce atrophy of the liver. The pressure of rings and straps and garters may produce atrophy of the tissues, which they compress, so also with the pressure of tumors or diseased blood-vessels.

Inaction or want of use is a frequent cause of atrophy. If a muscle is not used, the biceps of the arm, for example, it becomes weak and flabby; if a gland ceases to produce its natural secretion it atrophies and the thymus has been mentioned as an example of this. Excessive loss of any secretions or discharges from the body means atrophy and body waste, for it implies excessive draughts upon the blood and nerves.

This is true whether there is loss of blood directly, as in repeated hemorrhages or prolonged suppuration or chronic diarrhea, or the loss of albumen and sugar from the blood through the kidneys.

Fat is the tissue which is first called upon in the process of atrophy for it covers the entire body and is the reserve which is first invoked in time of distress.

Atrophy of nerve tissue. Even the atrophy of fat is followed by atrophy of nerve tissue. When they are deprived, to any considerable degree, of the lime salts which are vital to them.

It is possible for some organs and tissues which have undergone atrophy to be restored if the blood and nerve currents can again be made to course through them.

Sometimes this is accomplished by food and exercise, sometimes by the proper use of the electric current.

If the nutrition of an atrophied tissue cannot be restored, that tissue is dead and useless and its removal may be advantageous and even imperative.

KELLYGRAMS

by FRED C. KELLY

HOW VALUABLE IS AN ACCOMMODATING MAN?

Behind the glass door of a private office in a certain big bank sits the president, an old-fashioned banker who wears throat whiskers and glares out toward customers in the lobby. He has the dignity and complacency of a typical honorary palbear.

Undoubtedly he feels that he performs a magnanimous service in lending money to those who need it.

Possibly he forgets that if no one borrowed money from the bank, the institution would perish, since money-lending is their business.

Be that as it may, if you were to ask this bank president why customers come there rather than to some other bank, he would say—or at any rate, he would want to say:

"They are attracted here because the president of the bank is regarded as a tower of strength in the community. Because—"

Well, anyhow, whatever this banker would say, it is safe to assume that he firmly believes his own personal reputation plays a not inconsiderable part in the growing success of the bank. He would be rudely shocked to learn how few of the bank's customers ever heard of him.

Now, right across the lobby from the president's office is a pale-faced, green-eyed young man behind one of the teller's windows. He is not an important-looking young man, and would not be noticed even in a small crowd.

And yet I haven't the slightest doubt that this same young man attracts three times as many new customers as does the president.

How? By being accommodating. By making friends. One morning a woman who had just cashed a small check remarked: "Gracious, I don't know how I'm ever going to make my train. I was hurried enough as it was, and now I must go back home, for I just happened to think I left the gas burning in the kitchen stove."

"If it will help matters any," promptly suggested the paying teller, "I'll be glad to run out during the noon hour and turn the gas off for you—that is, if you are willing to trust me with the key to your house."

The woman flashed him a look of gratitude and proceeded lightly and heartily to catch her train. She has been telling other women ever since how courteous and accommodating are the people in her bank. She rarely deals with anybody except one or two tellers, but she is convinced that the employees in that bank, one and all, make the customers' troubles their own.

Nobody knows exactly how to measure good will, as created by good treatment, and hence it is difficult to tell how valuable that accommodating young teller is to his bank.

But my guess is that his salary is not more than six per cent of his real value to his employers.

FIRE CAPTAIN ROY IRELAND RESIGNS FROM DEPARTMENT

Captain Roy Ireland has resigned as a member of the Xenia Fire Department, it became known Tuesday. His successor will probably not be named by City Manager S. O. Hale before May 1.

Ireland tendered his resignation to Manager Hale April 15 at the expiration of a fifteen-day leave of absence, in order to accept a position with the state highway department.

He had been a member of the fire department for the past four or five years and was promoted to the rank of captain less than a year ago as a result of reorganization of the department.

Manager Hale expects to fill the vacancy of regular fireman from an eligible list of three applicants who recently qualified for appointment by passing civil service examinations.

The resignation of Ireland may necessitate another re-assignment of officers of the department.

Adoption of the six-six plan of county school organization similar to that at Central High School, was given further consideration at a meeting of county school superintendents and several members of various county boards of education in the office of H. C. Aultman, county school superintendent, Monday afternoon.

T. Howard Winters, representing the state department of education, also attended the meeting and conferred with the school heads. The plan is eventually to be adopted by all county schools.

Ross and Jefferson Twp., will place the system in operation first, beginning next fall and the latter township has already applied to the state department for a charter. C. A. Devoe is superintendent of Jefferson Twp., schools and A. F. Roush is superintendent of Ross Twp.

Remainder of the schools are working with the end in view of adopting the plan later.

The six-six plan includes six years of grade school work and six years of high school, including junior high school.

Examination questions for the eighth grade examination held in all county schools Tuesday were distributed to the superintendents at the meeting. The superintendents are to meet in Superintendent Aultman's office again next Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock when the results of the examinations will be considered.

In the general grade to be given pupils, the examination is to count 50 per cent and daily school work 50 per cent.

Commencement dates for the county schools are also being set. Bowersville will hold its graduation exercises next Tuesday with F. E. Pierson, former state director of public education, as the principal speaker of the occasion.

Dr. A. M. Patterson, N. King St., has returned home from Richmond, Va., and the past week when he spent the past week in business. He went to Richmond to attend the annual meeting of the American Chemical Society and from there went to Washington.

In the latter city he attended the annual meeting of the chemical division of the National Research Council, of which he is committee chairman. William Hale, whose father was formerly pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, was at the convention also. Mr. Hale is chairman this year of the chemical division and is located in Washington during his term of office. His home is in Midland, Mich.

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

The WAY I FEEL ABOUT IT

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY
Many a man thinks he is strong-minded when he is only wrong-minded.

THE POINT OF VIEW
Seed does not sprout in barren ground. But many parents expect college to make ideas sprout in barren minds.

EPH SNOW
"The best agricultural relief for one class of farmers," declared Eph Snow, "would be for gasoline to sell at two dollars a gallon. Then they couldn't get to town."

WHO REMEMBERS
The stock expression, "He's not worth the powder to blow him up?"

A RECKLESS DRIVER
The Chinese dragon has hitched his wagon to a star. But if he don't get sane he won't get very far.

EXPERIENCE
It's known to men with years grown wise.

A LIVELY GIRL HAS DEADLY EYES.
IT'S WHAT'S IN THEM
Silk stockings never made a lady, but then neither did cotton ones.

IN OUR TOWN
Constable Nick Wallace took his eye off the mysterious stranger at the Grand Hotel and invited him to address the Reading Circle when the visitor explained that he is a bookmaker.

AMAZING MAZIE
Irma's mind is out of gear—She chose a man with no career; Clara's mind is somewhat better—The man she wed is a "go-getter."

But Mazie's mind's above the mob's—She has a man and both have jobs.

THE POINT OF VIEW
The Chinese intend to live their own lives. Even if they have to kill half their population in order to do it.

SHORT STORIES
"That Jones chick who hangs around the soda fountain has become a big bore," complained the clerk.
"Yes," replied the druggist, "he is a counter irritant."

"Haven't you learned to skate yet?" asked the visitor of four-year-old Tommy who was striving manfully to keep his balance while on his rollers.

"No'm, I ain't quite learned to skate," he grinned, "but I'm learnin' to fall pretty good."

MINOR MUSINGS
It doesn't matter so much where you live provided you can get away from it when you please.

There are a lot of patriots for revenue only who think the song should be revised, "My Country 'Tis of Me."

While the men sit about discussing the radio wave lengths, the women talk about permanent wave lengths.

When the "heathen Chinese" get to fighting they become so vicious you would almost think they were Christians.

Asked to explain simply in his own way the war in China, our local chop suey mandarin replied "Allee same white man—too many no good."

Our forefathers never would have reared the big families that were theirs if every member had demanded a car of his own.

You could never convince the average small boy that school teachers are not paid enough.

Life's great successes are not those who "hold their own," but those who also hold others' own.

Young Vanderbilt won't find it so easy to pay off his $3,000,000 worth of debts by writing. There is only one Able's Irish Rose.

An ill-bred person is one who laughs at a joke as if he enjoyed it.

Civilization follows the machine gun.

Keep you head, even if somebody gets your goat.

MISTRIAL LOOMS IN LIBEL ACTION

GERMAN TRADE MADE IMPORTANT GAIN IN COMMERCE FOR 1926

United States Leads Ex- ports And Britain In Imports

WASHINGTON, Apr. 19.—The outstanding feature of world trade in 1926 was the remarkable "come-back" of Germany, which alone of the important commercial nations sold more goods in foreign markets than during the preceding year.

Statistics disclosing a total world trade of about $57,500,000,000 last year were made public today by the commerce department.

Passing France, Germany became the third most important exporting nation in 1926, having sold abroad goods valued at $2,352,400,000, a gain of $258,300,000 from the year before.

German sales in 1926 were only slightly under the figure of 1913.

German import business, however, fell off fifteen per cent.

On the other hand French foreign sales fell $246,000,000 reaching a level of $1,928,000,000 last year. France was close to $600,000,000 beyond previous averages.

Great Britain accounted for approximately $16,900,000,000 out of the total world trade for the year.

For eighteen countries, which do about three-fourths of the business, there was a loss of five per cent for the year.

The United States developed total trade of $9,495,600,000. Britain and its possessions purchased from other nations good valued at $9,234,200,000 and sold the world commodities of a $7,580,400,000 valuation.

As an individual nation the United States carried off honors as an exporter, having shipped abroad goods valued at $4,808,500,000, compared to $3,776,000,000 for the United Kingdom. The United Kingdom was the largest individual importer with $6,037,800,000. The United States ranking next with $4,480,900,000.

Preliminary figures for 1925 indicate that the United States will increase its export trade, but that there will be little change in the ranking of nations. German foreign sales are said to be on the increase, in a great drive to re-establish pre-war markets.

"The figures for the United Kingdom reflect the coal strike, with a drop of a billion dollars between 1925 and 1926," the commerce department said. "Exports of $7,000,000,000 and imports $350,000,000."

"France was the only other important trading country to suffer a serious decrease in both imports and exports, the drop having been $404,000,000."

"In contrast with the almost universal decline in trade of European countries, Canada, though small, in North America was striking. Canadian trade increased five and one-half per cent and that of the United States one per cent."

"BIG PARADE" SEES GILBERT IN JAIL

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 19.—There was a "big parade" on today and through the jail built under the Will Rogers administration today, for there, occupying one of the "guest cells," was John Gilbert, film idol and there he will be for the next ten days.

Gilbert, police say, burst into the jail on April 11 and insisted the officers arrest "someone." Failing to get the desired action, Gilbert, the records show, became impatient, not to say indignant, whereupon he was locked up for a few hours, later being released on bail.

When he appeared yesterday to answer charges of disturbing the peace, he was given the "tenner."

STAR SENTENCED

NEW YORK, April 19.—Mae West, star and co-author of "sex" was today sentenced to ten days in jail and to pay a fine of $500 for participating in an "obscene theatrical performance."

The same sentence was meted out to James A. Timony, lawyer and financial backer of the play, while Clarence William Morgan, stern, the producer, was given a ten day workhouse sentence without the fine.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 19.—Komaka Sumada, Japanese film star, was here today on her way to Hollywood. The little Nipponese movie maid carried gifts from Japanese screen celebrities to Pola Negri, Charles Chaplin, Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Norma Talmadge, and Colleen Moore. She arrived here on the Yaiyo Maru.

GOVERNOR SMITH BELIEVES HIS STATEMENT CLOSING ARGUMENT

ABSECON, N. J., Apr. 19.—Governor Al Smith, of New York, considers the church-state debate ended with his letter to Charles C. Marshall, in which he set forth the creed as an American Catholic. In reply to an article by Marshall in the Atlantic Monthly, following the publishing of the Governor's letter, Marshall wrote a second statement, seeking to strengthen his contention that Roman Catholicism and the American constitution conflict.

This the governor will leave unanswered, as he believes that his original reply, in which he said that there was no conflict between church and state as the two were entirely separated, fully answered the question and made clear his stand on the issue. Congratulations on his stand continued today to reach the governor from all parts of the country.

CONTRARY MARY OFF TO EUROPE

NEW YORK, April 19.—Mary Lewis, Metropolitan opera singer from Little Rock, Ark., was on her way to Europe today with her newly acquired husband, Michael Bohnen, leaving a string of broken engagements behind.

She had intended to remain in this country to fill her concert engagements, despite the fact that she was married only last Thursday, and went to the last night to see Bohnen off. But the thought of parting was too much for her, and Mrs. Bohnen made a dash for her apartment where she gathered together a few clothes and her passport, returning just in time to board the ship.

Mrs. Bohnen will have to cancel themselves," she said. "I haven't time."

MYERS COOPER IS AGAIN G. O. P. CHOICE

MARION, O., Apr. 19.—Myers V. Cooper, Cincinnati, defeated Republican candidate for governor of Ohio in 1926 is the party's hope for governor in 1928. Fred W. Warner, Marion, chairman of the Republican State Central committee, declared here today.

Other party "hopes" according to Warner, will be Edward C. Turner, attorney general, and Simon D. Fess, for United States senator.

"Any one of these men can be elected," Warner continued. "If a bitter primary fight can be avoided, if we can avert a primary battle, a complete victory for the entire Republican ticket is assured."

FINANCE GAMES

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Apr. 19.—A million-dollar bond issue to help finance the world olympic games, to be held in Los Angeles in 1932, had the authorization of the state assembly today, by a vote of 57 to 13.

WEALTHY CLERKS

LOS ANGELES, April 19.—Lorenz Adlon, son of the multimillionaire owner of the famous Adlon Hotel in Berlin, Germany was working here today as a clerk in the Biltmore Hotel. His brother, Louis Jr., it was reported, will soon take a similar job in a San Francisco hotel.

THOUSANDS DRIVEN FROM HOMES; RAINS INCREASE DANGERS

Kansans Driven Out Third Time By Swollen Streams

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 19.—Engineers said today only an act of providence or a sudden standstill in the waters can prevent the Saint Francis Basin from being flooded, due to a new levee break. The water was still rising steadily today, and efforts of engineers were directed toward "topping" the barriers and otherwise reinforcing them.

Reports that the levee at Farnsburg on the Little River had broken were denied, but it was admitted that water was lapping over the side. All night long more than 1,000 men labored to prevent the levee from crashing before the pressure of the high waters.

The flood situation, especially in Arkansas, Mississippi and along the lower Mississippi valley became worse today.

A dozen deaths are more or less attributed to the floods, while nearly 30,000 are homeless, according to Red Cross estimates. Property damage and loss to farmers as the result of thousands of acres being inundated, is incalculable, but it probably will run into millions.

ST. LOUIS, April 19.—With suffering increasing to sections south of here, the Red Cross sent out an appeal today for contributions to a fund to be used to house between 25,000 and 40,000 flood refugees until the waters recede along the Mississippi River and its tributaries.

New breaks late yesterday to the south of here inundated additional territories in southern Illinois and Arkansas.

The latest break reported occurred in Illinois across the river from Cape Girardeau, Mo., driving twenty-five families from their homes. These refugees and others between Reynoldsville and Gale, Ill., are being taken across the river to Missouri for safety while hundreds are being housed in tents erected on high ground near Cairo.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 19.—Southeast Kansas was today in the grip of a flood, the third in two weeks, with rivers rising at a rapid rate following heavy rains.

Burlington, Kas., and Iola, were hardest hit, the Neosho river at the latter place spreading out over lowlands for three miles.

The Cerdigris river at Madison was rising at the rate of thirty inches an hour during the night and by morning had flooded lowlands and driven residents from the town.

Many were again homeless today after they had returned from the two floods last week to set their homes in order.

Several small twisters visited the vicinity of Eastern Oklahoma but no lives were lost. At Texarkana, Ark., one was killed and four injured in a tornado.

Ottawa, Kas., eighty miles from Kansas City, was threatened today with inundation. The Malheur Des Cygne river had risen to the highest level for several years.

The abolition of fees (as sought in the Roberts bill) is laudable, declared Donahay. "The objection, however, is that the proposed fixed salaries would amount to $122,646 more than the total of present salaries and fees. Ditch fees in 1925 amounted to only $9,165 and salary fees to $30,937, a total of $40,102. Had the general assembly merely increased the fixed salaries in this amount I would have been glad to sign the bill," the governor said.

The Abele bill, according to the governor, "would immediately expose our eighty-eight county treasurers to the solicitations of innumerable salesmen. Not only would it result in added expenditure of public funds," the governor continued, "but it would serve as the entering wedge to subsequent insurance of every custodian of public funds in the state."

The Abele bill, according to the governor, "would immediately expose our eighty-eight county treasurers to the solicitations of innumerable salesmen. Not only would it result in added expenditure of public funds," the governor continued, "but it would serve as the entering wedge to subsequent insurance of every custodian of public funds in the state."

The abolition of fees (as sought in the Roberts bill) is laudable, declared Donahay. "The objection, however, is that the proposed fixed salaries would amount to $122,646 more than the total of present salaries and fees. Ditch fees in 1925 amounted to only $9,165 and salary fees to $30,937, a total of $40,102. Had the general assembly merely increased the fixed salaries in this amount I would have been glad to sign the bill," the governor said.

KNOW YOUR SCHOOLS PROGRAM OF GRADES SCHEDULED APRIL 22

Second annual "Know Your Schools" program will be observed in all Xenia schools except the Opportunity School and the grades in the Central building Friday evening, April 22.

The various buildings will be open for public inspection beginning at 7 p. m. and parents and patrons are urged to attend.

Similar programs are carried out in other cities every year to acquaint the public with the work of the schools and school heads earnestly solicit attendance. In this way it is hoped to get the attainments of the schools before the public.

Information desks will be found in the buildings and guides will be available for convenience of visitors. There will be no formality and visitors are invited to come and go as they please.

Central High School held its annual program of like nature the evening of February 21.

This is an opportunity for parents and patrons to visit the schools, hear the children recite and become better acquainted with the teachers of the boys and girls.

Special arrangements are being made to take care of the primary children and see that they are returned safely home at the close of school, should the parent find it impossible to pay the school a visit that night.

At McKinley and Spring Hill the program will consist of a regular half-day of the routine work of the grades. Special musical features will be given in the auditoriums at 7:10 and 8:25 p. m. Work of the first three grades in both buildings is done entirely in one room but the intermediate schools will change rooms and teachers for each of the three class periods of the evening.

East High, pupils from the first grade through the twelfth will assemble at 6:45 p. m. and the regular routine of school work will begin at 7 o'clock. Visitors will find an information desk and place to register in the corridors and ushers will gladly assist patrons in finding the grade they desire to inspect. After the dismissal at 9 o'clock special features will be presented in the gym for purposes of further entertainment.

The work done at the session will not be "set" but will be a fair sample of the type of school activity carried out every day.

Fifteen from Xenia were among the 100 people attending the district library meeting at Yellow Springs, Friday. Greene County District Library was represented by several board members, two of the library staff, members of the original committee, who founded the library association almost fifty years ago and numerous former board members and interested readers of the community.

The book from its selection to its presentation in the library was the subject upon which talks and discussions during the day were based. The talks were stimulating and led to much discussion of books, not only in libraries, but in homes as well.

Miss Wilfred Sandoe, Greene County District Librarian, in her paper on "The District Library" stressed the fact that the library is a place where the children can find books and where the adults can find books and where the adults can find books and where the adults can find books.

Greene County was represented by delegates from Yellow Springs and Cedarville, as well as Xenia. Those present from Xenia were: Mrs. P. H. Flynn, Mrs. S. O. CHRISTIAN SCIENCE DISEASE DOCTRINE IS EXPLAINED HERE

"The Christian Scientist combats disease on the basis that it is a manifestation of imperfection. It is an impudent assertion of the existence of a power apart from the omnipotent God," Frank Bell, C. S. B., Philadelphia, Pa., member of the board of lecturers of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston, Mass., told an audience at Central High School auditorium Monday night.

"The conditions of disease would affirm that man, to whom God gave dominion, is in subjection to evil, that man, whom God made in His image and likeness, the likeness of perfection, is a poor, helpless thing, crippled, hampered, ultimately killed by nonintelligent, inanimate matter," Mr. Bell said.

"The Christian Scientist apprehends that it is a part of his Christian duty to disprove the affirmations of disease, to add to the accumulation of evidence that sin, disease, and death are neither created, sent, sanctioned, nor tolerated by God. It is because the Christian Scientist is awakening to the essential ungodliness of evil that he regards the healing of disease by spiritual means as a distinctly religious activity. The primary motive in this activity is the demonstration of the perfection of man, and this not for the gratification of man, but for the glory of God.

"When the people, at sight of the healings of Jesus, glorified God, it must have been because they caught the religious significance of what was taking place. Jesus, of course, understood this. He declared that it was the Father with him doing the works. He did always those things which pleased the Father. Of himself He could do nothing. He was about His Father's business, and that business, according to the record, had largely to do with healing.

"Jesus distinctly commanded His disciples to go into all the world and to heal the sick, and they were to teach all men all things He had commanded them. Certain signs, He said, should follow them that believed, certifying to the genuineness of their discipleship. Among these signs He specifically named the healing of disease. Those who loved Him would keep His commandments. Could the authority for healing as an indispensable part of Christianity be more complete? Surely it is the business of religion to meet and master everything unlike God. Surely nothing could be more unlike God than disease.

"Christian healing is distinguished from the results accredited to drugs, hygiene, or hypnotism in that Christian healing involves moral regeneration. The renewing of the mind is primary, healing of the body an incidental effect. The purpose is to bring out the perfection of man in the likeness of God. Spirit; therefore complete physical health, so-called, without a corresponding illumination of spiritual sense, would lack a Christian essential. Mere physical health is possible in the lowest animal.

"Jesus' recipe for health was (John 5:14): 'Sin no more, lest a worse thing come unto thee.'

Those who are not ready to be better men and women are not ready for true Christian healing. But one need not too hastily assume that he is unready to be better. Often those who come with no other conscious desire than to be relieved of pain find that without knowing it they are seeking release from sin. The heaven of righteousness is working unseen in many a heart."

TASTE AND SEE.—O taste and see the Lord is good: blessed is the man that trusteth in him. Psalm 34:8.

BOLSHEVIKI DOMINATE CHINA

The relations between Red Russia and revolutionary South China are closer than ever before, according to Louis Fischer, Russian correspondent writing in "The Independent."

"Through all the complicated maze of Chinese events, the hand of the Kremlin is easily discernible," the writer says. "The happenings of the last few years are connected by a crimson thread which leads from Canton to Hankow to Moscow. The Russians inspire, advise, and help the Kuomintang Nationalists, and will undoubtedly continue to do so. The Bolsheviks have given arms and money to the South Chinese, but they have supplied the Cantonese with a weapon more effective and far cheaper than field guns, rifles, and airplanes—a weapon against which the products of European arsenals are powerless. That weapon is propaganda."

Many battles are won by the disintegration of the enemy army through propaganda, the writer points out.

"The Chinese has a spiritual affinity for Soviet Russia which the European and American can scarcely comprehend," the writer continues. "The Kuomintang look to Moscow as its Mecca and to the Moscow Sun Yat-sen University over which Karl Radek, formerly the arch-Communist propagandist, presides as the source of light."

HOMES IN GARDENS

There seems to be a growing interest among architects, landscape artists and other authorities, in restoring beauty and privacy to the back yards or gardens of residences, whether individual homes or apartment buildings. A French artist has been urging his people to return to that style, which used to be common enough there but has been abandoned in late years, backing their houses and apartments against the street and facing them on a garden or lawn that is removed from the sight and noise of the public thoroughfare.

Come to think of it, isn't it a queer thing that residential sections in many cities put so much money and energy into unnecessarily large front lawns, leaving the back yards to weeds, cinders or cement, rubbish and delivery men?

Front lawns with fine grass, flowers, shrubs and trees help to beautify the streets. That is a desirable end, but it could undoubtedly be achieved without using quite so much space. It has all come about, perhaps, from a natural human desire to show off and to place the best in public view. A pleasant private yard, might beautify the community even more, help to do away with slovenly back yards and provide a delightful place to spend the summer evenings.

LIGHTED HIGHWAYS

A bill is before the Ohio legislature which provides for the lighting of rural highways by the state under much the same plan as new roads are built and kept in repair. Farmers of the state are expressing themselves as strongly in favor of this bill. The reason is not far to seek. If the bill becomes a law it will mean not only much-needed lighting along the busiest inter-city routes, but it will also bring electricity, with all the conveniences it makes possible, right to the farmer's door.

The congestion of traffic and the increased number of accidents and hold-ups along state highways have created the demand for this lighting system. The time when practically all travelling along the roads was in daylight has passed. The highways now are used for both passenger and freight traffic 24 hours a day.

Highway lighting has already been undertaken on a wide scale in some states. General interest in it is likely to develop rapidly from now on.

If ignorance were bliss, everybody would be happy. Nowadays they sue for divorce and the custody of the reputation.

SONGS of a
HOUSEWIFE

CEFS & Marjorie K. Rawlings

AT THE DOOR

Who's knocking at the door?
Who's there?
It might be anyone,
From anywhere.

A step, a rap, a voice—
And it might be
Someone as dear as life,
Come home to me.

Someone, perchance, whose path
Has grown apart,
Come knocking at my door
And at my heart.

Adventure taps the door,
The strange, the rare,
It may be almost anything—
Who's there?

ATROPHY

The picture which arises before the mind at the mention of the word atrophy is of something withered or shrunken, or weakened, unable to do its normal work, lacking the appearance of health; something that has had its day and is worn out.

That is a correct picture, and applies to anything that has life. An atrophied plant has had its flower and seed, and has withered and dried up; an atrophied limb of a tree hangs bare and barren, attached still to its parent stem, but without beauty and without usefulness, waiting only for a strong gust of wind to tear it away from its moorings.

A child who has suffered with infantile spinal paralysis drags its little leg and foot helplessly along and if you examine it you find it is thin and shapeless, its muscles unable to give him much assistance in locomotion and showing that something very important and very serious has happened to it.

That something is atrophy, and in this particular case it has made the child a cripple for life.

This atrophy of the muscles of the child's leg and foot is the consequence of disease, but there is another kind of atrophy which comes simply because the work of the part or organ is completed and there is no further use of it, like the stalk of the plant which dries up after the season's work is over, and this is called physiological atrophy.

There is in the upper part of the chest an organ or gland called the thymus gland or sweetbread.

Just what its work is we do not clearly know, but it is one of those ductless glands which, as endocrinology has recently taught us, plays an important part in development and nutrition, and its work is completed by the fourteenth year or earlier.

From that time on it shrivels up, and before very long, unless it has become diseased, there is scarcely a trace of it. So too, in the wonderful reproductive organs of the woman, when the child-bearing period is ended and there is no further use for them they shrink and wither and in old age you can merely find the rudiments of them.

There is, therefore, an atrophy of disease and one that is physiological, or which signifies that the appointed work has been done.

Atrophy implies a want of nourishment, especially as derived from the blood and the nerves, and so we find in atrophied organs and tissues that they have less blood in them than in the normal state; they are smaller, firmer, drier and less elastic.

A single organ or tissue of the body may undergo atrophy or it may affect the entire body as it does in extreme old age, when the entire machine is worn out.

Defective development is not necessarily atrophy. A child may come into the world with certain parts poorly developed or deformed or he may fail to develop after birth in a normal way and may appear dwarfed and stunted.

That is not atrophy; it is merely imperfect development. Atrophy, which is the result of disease, is accompanied with emaciation and wasting there is degeneration both in structure and function of the organs and tissues which have undergone this change. We often see this exemplified in the fevers so that they are frequently spoken of as the wasting diseases. The same is true of chronic diseases like tuberculosis, Bright's disease and diabetes.

Atrophy may be produced by pressure, particularly if it is long continued. The tight lacing which some foolish women indulge in has been known to produce atrophy of the liver. The pressure of rings and straps and garters may produce atrophy of the tissues, which compress, so also with the pressure of tumors or diseased blood-vessels.

Inaction or want of use is a frequent cause of atrophy. If a muscle is not used, the biceps of the arm, for example, it becomes weak and flabby; if a gland ceases to produce its natural secretion it atrophies and the thymus has been mentioned as an example of this. Excessive loss of any secretions or discharges from the body means atrophy and body waste, for it implies excessive draughts upon the blood and nerves.

This is true whether there is loss of blood directly, as in repeated hemorrhages or prolonged suppuration or chronic diarrhea, or the loss of albumen and sugar from the blood through the kidneys.

Pat is the tissue which is first called upon in the process of atrophy for it covers the entire body and is the reserve which is first invoked in time of distress.

Atrophy of fat is followed by atrophy of nerve tissue. Even the bones may undergo a form of atrophy and become unusually brittle when they are deprived, to any considerable degree, of the lime salts which are vital to them.

It is possible for some organs and tissues which have undergone atrophy to be restored if the blood and nerve currents can again be made to course through them.

Sometimes this is accomplished by food and exercise, sometimes by the proper use of the electric current.

If the nutrition of an atrophied tissue cannot be restored, that tissue is dead and useless and its removal may be advantageous and even imperative.

KELLYGRAMS ^{by} FRED C. KELLY

HOW VALUABLE IS AN ACCOMMODATING MAN?

Behind the glass door of a private office in a certain big bank sits the president of the bank.

He is an old-fashioned banker who wears throat whiskers and glares out toward customers in the lobby. He has the dignity and complacency of a typical honorary palbearer.

Undoubtedly he feels that he performs a magnanimous service in lending money to those who need it. Possibly he forgets that if no one borrowed money from the bank, the institution would perish, since money-lending is their business.

Be that as it may, if you were to ask this bank president why customers come there rather than to some other bank, he would say—or at any rate, he would want to say:

"They are attracted here because the president of the bank is regarded as a tower of strength in the community. Because—"

Well, anyhow, whatever this banker would say, it is safe to assume that he firmly believes his own personal reputation plays a not inconsiderable part in the growing success of the bank. He would be rudely shocked to learn how few of the bank's customers ever heard of him.

Now, right across the lobby from the president's office is a pale-faced, green-eyed-shaded young man behind one of the teller's windows. He is not an important looking young man, and would not be noticed even in a small crowd. And yet I haven't the slightest doubt that this same young man attracts three times as many new customers as does the president.

How? By being accommodating. By making friends. One morning a woman who had just cashed a small check remarked: "Gracious, I don't know how I'm ever going to make my train. I was hurried enough as it was, and now I must go back home, for I just happened to think I left the gas burning in the kitchen stove."

"If it will help matters any," promptly suggested the paying teller, "I'll be glad to run out during the noon hour and turn the gas off for you—that is, if you are willing to trust me with the key to your house."

The woman flashed him a look of gratitude and proceeded lightly and heartily to catch her train. She has been telling other women ever since how courteous and accommodating are the people in her bank. She rarely deals with anybody except one or two tellers, but she is convinced that the employees in that bank, one and all, make the customers' troubles their own.

Nobody knows exactly how to measure good will, as created by good treatment, and hence it is difficult to tell how valuable that accommodating young teller is to his bank.

But my guess is that his salary is not more than six per cent of his real value to his employers.

FIRE CAPTAIN ROY IRELAND RESIGNS FROM DEPARTMENT

Captain Roy Ireland has resigned as a member of the Xenia Fire Department. It became known Tuesday. His successor will probably not be named by City Manager S. O. Hale before May 1.

Ireland tendered his resignation to Manager Hale April 15 at the expiration of a fifteen-day leave of absence, in order to accept a position with the state highway department.

He had been a member of the fire department for the past four or five years and was promoted to the rank of captain less than a year ago as a result of reorganization of the department.

Manager Hale expected to fill the vacancy of regular fireman from an eligible list of three applicants who recently qualified for appointment by passing civil service examinations.

The resignation of Ireland may necessitate another re-assignment of officers of the department.

SIX-SIX EDUCATION PLAN DISCUSSED BY SCHOOL HEADS HERE

Adoption of the six-six plan of education similar to that at Central High School, was given further consideration at a meeting of county school superintendents and several members of various county boards of education in the office of H. C. Aultman, county school superintendent, Monday.

T. Howard Winters, representing the state department of education, also attended the meeting and conferred with the school heads. The plan is eventually to be adopted by all county schools.

Ross and Jefferson Twp., will place the system in operation first, basing next fall and the latter township has already applied to the state department for a charter. C. A. Devoe is superintendent of Jefferson Twp., schools and A. P. Roush is superintendent of Ross Twp.

Remainder of the schools are working with the end in view of adopting the plan later.

The six-six plan includes six years of grade school work and six years of high school, including junior high school.

Examination questions for the eighth grade examination held in all county schools Tuesday were distributed to the superintendents at the meeting. The superintendents are to meet in Superintendent Aultman's office again next Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock when the results of the examinations will be considered.

In the general grade to be given pupils, the examination is to count 50 per cent and daily school work 50 per cent.

Commencement dates for the county schools are also being set. Bowersville will hold its graduation exercises next Tuesday with F. E. Pierson, former state director of public education, as the principal speaker of the occasion.

William Hale, whose father was formerly pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, was at the convention also. Mr. Hale is chairman this year of the chemical division and is located in Washington during his term of office. His home is in Midland, Mich.

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

The WAY I FEEL ABOUT IT

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY
Many a man thinks he is strong-minded when he is only wrong-minded.

THE POINT OF VIEW
Seed does not sprout in barren ground. But many parents expect college to make ideas sprout in barren minds.

EPH SNOW
"The best agricultural relief for one class of farmers," declared Eph Snow, "would be for gasoline to sell at two dollars a gallon. Then they couldn't get to town."

WHO REMEMBERS
The stock expression, "He's not worth the powder to blow him up?"

A RECKLESS DRIVER
The Chinese dragon has hitched his wagon to a star. But if he don't get sane he won't get very far.

EXPERIENCE
It's known to men with years grown wise. A lively girl has deadly eyes. It's what's in them. Silk stockings never made a lady, but then neither did cotton ones.

IN OUR TOWN
Constable Nick Wallace took his eye off the mysterious stranger at the Grand Hotel and invited him to address the Reading Circle when the visitor explained that he is a bookmaker.

AMAZING MAZIE
Irma's mind is out of gear. She chose a man with no career. Clara's mind is somewhat better. The man she wed is a "go-getter." But Mazie's mind's above the mob's. She has a man and both have jobs.

THE POINT OF VIEW
The Chinese intend to live their own lives. Even if they have to kill. Half their population in order to do it.

SHORT STORIES
"That Jones shik who hangs around the soda fountain has become a big bore," complained the clerk. "Yes," replied the druggist, "he is a counter irritant."

"Haven't you learned to skate yet?" asked the visitor of four-year-old Tommy who was striving, manfully to keep his balance while on his rollers.

"No'm, I ain't quite learned to skate," he grinned, "but I'm learnin' to fall pretty good."

MINOR MUSINGS
It doesn't matter so much where you live provided you can get away from it when you please.

There are a lot of patriots for revenue only who think the song should be revised, "My Country 'Tis of Me."

While the men sit about discussing the radio wave lengths, the women talk about permanent wave lengths.

When the "heaven Chinese" get to fighting they become so vicious you would almost think they were Christians.

Asked to explain simply in his own way the war in China, our local chop suey mandarin replied "Allee same white man—too many no good."

Our forefathers never would have reared the big families that were theirs if every member had demanded a car of his own.

You could never convince the average small boy that school teachers are not paid enough.

Life's great successes are not those who "hold their own," but those who also hold others' own.

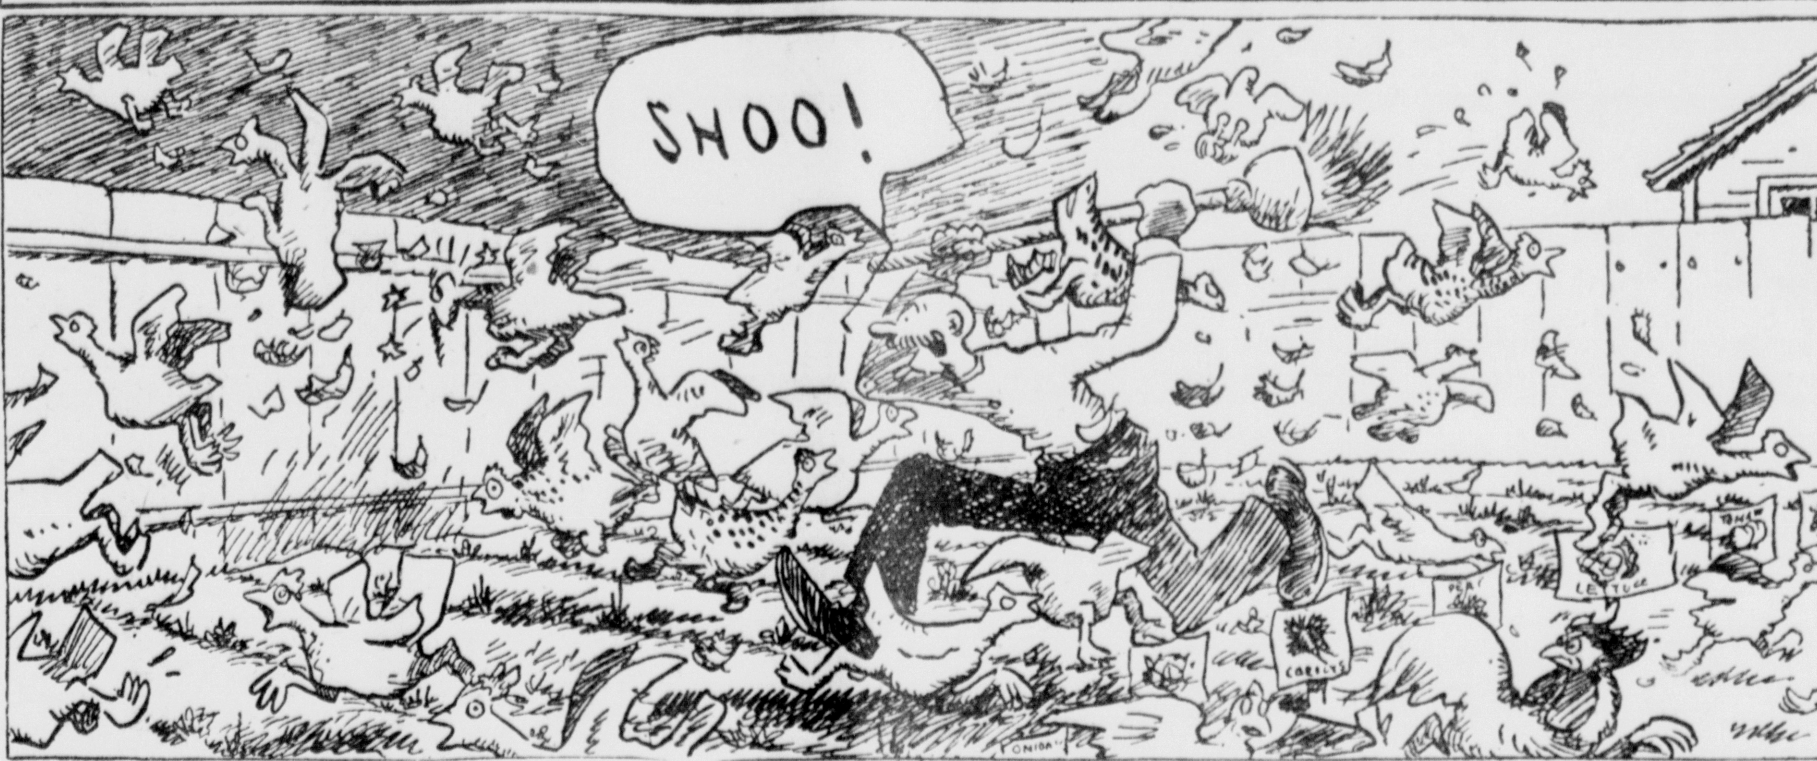

Young Vanderbilt won't find it so easy to pay off his $3,000,000 worth of debts by writing. There is only one Able's Irish Rose.

An ill-bred person is one who laughs at a joke as if he enjoyed it.

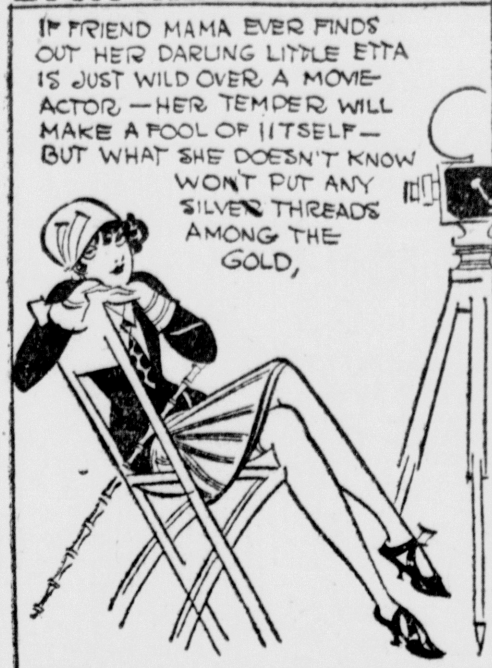

Civilization follows the machine gun.

Keep your head, even if somebody gets your goat.
